

The Supply Chain Day is a day of activities with the aim to broaden and sharpen the public awareness of logistics. Every year on the 3rd Thursday in April*, numerous companies, organizations, and institutes open their doors, allowing the interested public a look behind the scenes. They do so by offering factory tours, giving lectures; realizing simulation games, and organizing job fairs, to name just some activities. The participants will be able to gain an insight into the wide variety of logistics and supply chain management activities performed every day. All events are free of charge.

*If it coincides with Holy Thursday, it will take place the week before

Different groups visit the events: pupils and students interested in information on professional possibilities; professionals interested to learn about specific solutions; but also the interested public, eager to visit companies in their neighborhood. By organizing an event you have the opportunity to present your company as an attractive employer, present your services and solutions, and generally increase your popularity.
